Having trouble sleeping?

Sleeping problems

Having difficulties falling asleep at bedtime? Waking up frequently during the night and cannot fall asleep again? Feeling tired and grumpy throughout the day and having problems concentrating?

A 2011 study from Laval University showed that 40 percent of Canadians have some form of sleep disorder. The most common sleep disorder is insomnia caused by stress.

Stress affects everyone

Stress affects everyone: it could be work-related stress, home-related stress, social-related stress, or a combination of a number of different pressures.

The most common sleep complaints due to stress include:

- work related running thoughts
- worries about a big event next day, such as a job interview or exam
- fear of flying
- stage fright

Five effective tips for a better sleep

- Bring a clear structure to your daily routine, and plan time for relaxation
- Get adequate outdoor activities
- Delegate responsibility
- Train yourself to relax
- Accept professional therapeutic help when it is necessary

You are not the only one!

Be stress free and sleep well

A good night's sleep is essential to a positive and productive day. Lack of sleep may lead to impaired memory, reduced levels of concentration, and low physical performance which affects your ability to perform daily tasks. Experts believe that during sleep, nerve cells in the brain have a chance to repair themselves from extensive use during the day.

Get back to natural sleep

Passionflower is an herbal remedy, which has been known for centuries as an excellent treatment to help with sleep disturbances. It helps you sleep by turning off all the running thoughts which are going through your mind at bedtime. The mind can relax, which is then followed by the body, and as a result, sleep will follow.

PASCOFLAIR®, with the highest dose of Passionflower extract on the market, naturally calms and declutters your mind, helping you fall asleep and stay sound asleep through the night.

In 2009, PASCOFLAIR® beat out thousands of other natural health products to be recognized as the Natural Medicine of the Year by an association of German pharmacists.
